EXHIBITOR AND SPONSOR PROSPECTUS

Why You Should Exhibit at Botany & Plant Biology 2007

Exhibiting at the Joint Congress of the American Fern Society, American Society of Plant Biologists, American Society of Plant Taxonomists, and Botanical Society of America will be your best opportunity to reach the leaders of the global plant biology and botany community, whether you are selling, promoting your company, establishing your corporate message, researching the market, or introducing new products. You can take advantage of this unique marketing opportunity during what will be an unprecedented gathering of the most senior scientists in the world.

This meeting will offer many options for enhancing your presence at the meeting and increase your visibility. We surveyed, we listened and we are making changes!

In addition there are sponsorship opportunities available to enable you to underscore your commitment to plant science.

Here are some of the things that we are doing to increase traffic to the exhibit hall booths:

- Poster sessions will be interspersed throughout the Exhibit Hall, encouraging attendees to view the entire Hall, including your booth.
- Better, more focused hours and exclusive exhibit hall sessions.
- One major food & beverage function in the exhibit hall each day.
- Company product description listing in the exhibitor section of the on-site program for exhibitors who apply by May 11, 2007.

Here are some of the advanced marketing opportunities you'll have in order to create the flow you need:

- Pre-Show Attendee List Rental – Pre-convention mailings increase booth traffic and exposure to your company's products and services.
- Website Hyperlink – All exhibitors are listed on our meeting pages, however this year you can also add a hyperlink that will take visitors to your own homepage.
- Print advertising in our pre-conference journals and newsletters and our on-site program.

What Other Exhibitors Have to Say:

I just want to compliment you on a really good show!! It was one of the best shows we have attended in the last few years. You really concentrated on the exhibitors and made us feel like we counted and that getting traffic into the hall was a real goal. Thank you again, and see you next year!!

About the Four Societies of the Joint Congress

About ASPB

The American Society of Plant Biologists was founded in 1924 to promote the growth and development of plant biology, to encourage and publish research in plant biology, and to promote the interests and growth of plant scientists in general. Over the decades the Society has evolved and expanded to provide a forum for molecular and cellular biology as well as to serve the basic interests of plant science. It publishes the highly cited and respected journals Plant Physiology and The Plant Cell. Membership spans six continents, and our members work in such diverse areas as academia, government laboratories, and industrial and commercial environments. The Society also has a large student membership. ASPB plays a key role in uniting the international plant science disciplines

About AFS

The American Fern Society is over 100 years old. With over 900 members worldwide, it is one of the largest international fern clubs in the world. It was established in 1893 with the objective of fostering interest in ferns and fern allies. The members of AFS that attend the Botany annual meetings are primarily scientists interested in new books and scientific equipment to further their research and teaching.

About ASPT

The American Society of Plant Taxonomists is an international professional society devoted to the promotion of research and teaching in the taxonomy, systematics, and phylogeny of plants. Organized in 1935, the Society has a membership of over 1300 professionals, students, and non-academic botanists. The Society publishes the quarterly journal Systematic Botany, an electronic Newsletter, and the occasional series Systematic Botany Monographs. The ASPT also supports funds for a variety of honorary and charitable activities. For more information on the Society and its governance see the web site (<http://www.aspt.net/>).

The annual botany meeting is the event that brings out more ASPT members than any other annual event. ASPT members teach a wide variety of courses in botany and systematics, as well as other disciplines in the biological sciences. ASPT members will be interested in a wide variety of book titles. Research activities of ASPT members run the gamut from traditional plant taxonomy to molecular phylogenetics and genomics. ASPT members will be interested in seeing equipment and instrumentation supporting all of these activities.

About BSA

The Botanical Society of America (BSA) is a not-for-profit membership society that exists to promote botany, the field of basic science dealing with the study and inquiry into the form, function, development, diversity, reproduction, evolution, and uses of plants and their interactions within the biosphere. To accomplish this mission, the objectives of The Society are to: sustain and provide improved formal and informal education about plants; encourage basic plant research; provide expertise, direction, and position statements concerning plants and ecosystems; and foster communication within the professional botanical community, and between botanists and the rest of humankind through publications, meetings, and committees.

The breadth of interests of BSA members is reflected in the 15 special interest sections of the Society with which all members have the opportunity to become affiliated. These special interest sections are the Bryological and Lichenological, Developmental and Structural, Ecological, Economic, Genetic, Historical, Microbiological, Paleobotanical, Phycological, Physiological, Phytochemical, Pteridological, Systematic, Teaching and Tropical Biology Sections. There are also four geographic sections (Northeastern, Midcontinent, Southeastern and Pacific).

The Botanical Society of America encompasses all areas of plant biology, including development, physiology, reproductive biology, evolution, phycology, genetics, mycology, ecology, systematics, molecular biology, and paleobotany. The BSA is one of the world's largest societies devoted to the study of plants and allied organisms, and functions as an umbrella organization covering all specialties. It publishes the journal The American Journal of Botany. Since the strength of the botanical profession and its effective voice in world science today is dependent on the combined support of all taxonomic and disciplinary interest groups, all specialists are strongly encouraged to join and become active in the Botanical Society of America.

The sessions and workshops provide a means for participants to explore novel approaches to integrating plants into the classroom and to reach out and broaden participation in science. With a variety of formats from discussions to workshops, the Forum is a must for teachers and also for researchers who are interested in making their results accessible to students of biology at all levels. The global significance of plants continues to grow. It is therefore vital that plant scientists and their professional societies work to ensure that plants are represented in the undergraduate and graduate curriculum, as well as in science outreach initiatives.

K-12 educators from the Chicago area who attend the Forum will be able to earn Continuing Educational Units for their participation.

Workshop topics presented by education and public outreach institutions at previous Forums include: Scientific Inquiry through Plants: Developing New Inquiry Units, Techniques of Digital Image Enhancement for Teaching and Research, Integrating Digital Imaging Into the Laboratory Curriculum, Wisconsin Fast Plants, Using the Original and Newly Improved Versions of C-Fern® in Inquiry-based Teaching, Developing a Hands-on Distance Education Laboratory in Non-majors General Biology, and Strategies for Guiding Student Investigations.

Exhibitors are expected to make travel arrangements in accordance with the schedule in the exhibitor services manual. Each exhibitor will complete arrangements for removal of his or her material from the Hilton Chicago in accordance with the instructions provided in the Exhibitor Services Manual. Any exhibitor who cancels all or part of purchased booth space after March 21, 2007 will not receive a refund and ASPB will retain as liquidated damages all monies paid. In the event of a default by the exhibitor, as set forth in the previous sentence, the exhibitor shall forfeit as liquidated damages, the amount set forth above, regardless of whether or not the Show Management enters into a further lease for the space involved. In the event that fire, strike or other circumstances beyond the control of the management causes the exhibit to be cancelled, full refund of the exhibit rental fees will be made which is the limit and extent of ASPB's liability for such cancellation. All cancellation requests must be submitted in writing to the Plant Biology & Botany 2007 Exhibits Manager.
